

A hike from the Adonis hotel to the meat and fish market

Walk down the Kidathineon towards Acropolis.
Straight ahead as far as you can go.
The street turns into stairs. Up you go.

Take to the right, having Acropolis on your left.
Walk straight. You pass a blue barrel with flowers on your right.

Street turns into alleys, 1m, just walk straight.
Street is now like a maze, turning left, left, right
– don't remember the turns, but its distinct.

Finally there is a junction, blue pole. You have been walking the Statonos str.

Take a left. Acropolis is on your left.
Soon you will have a fence on your right.
Magnificent view.

You pass on your left a church of the metamorphosis.
You pass on your right small streets with stairs.
The street is now wide as a small plaza.

You now take the stairs on your right having Acropolis behind you.
The stairs is between a green fence on your left and houses and a restaurant on your right.

When having walked down the stairs you are now on the Dioskouron street and walk through a restaurant, blue tables.

Endaxi!

Fence on your left, ruin pillars on your right, you continue to the left and then the 1st to the right.

On the house on your right there is graffiti.
On the left side you see a tree further down.

You walk on quite an ugly street, and then,
suddenly you are on Monastiraki square.
The first street on your left is the flea market and the next building is the Metro.

Now, looking across the square, you will see a big street. This is the Athinas.

Walk this street some blocks and you will be at the markets.
To the left: vegetables

To the right: meat and fish

HAVE A NICE HIKE!
